  - Indefinite pronouns
  - First and second conditionals
- Learning words and expressions in context
  - Travelling troubles
  - Flying

About travelling

1. VERB TENSES REVIEW

Introduction

- In this lesson we are reviewing some of the different verb tenses that we have in English, such as simple present, present progressive, simple past, past progressive and simple present perfect.
- Regarding verb tenses, we have to take into account that, in many cases, they will not have a direct translation into Spanish, so we better learn to think like a native speaker, rather than translate from one language into the other.
- Finally, there are some words which require a certain verb tense, we call them signal words and they will indicate us the right verb tense to use.

Explanation

Simple present:

Signal words

Every day, usually, sometimes, seldom, always, never, often, first…then

- Use:

Something happens repeatedly.

How often something happens.

One action follows another.

When something is generally true

Future meaning: timetable, programmes

- Form:

Infinitive he/she/ it → Verb +-s

- Examples:

Examples affirmatives

- I work/ he works
- I go/ he goes

Examples negatives:

- I don't work/He doesn't work
- I don't go/ He doesn't go

Example interrogative:

- Do I work?/ Does he work?
- Do I go?/ Does he go?

Present progressive:

Signal words:

Now, at the moment, look, listen

- Use:

Something is happening at the same time of speaking or around it

Future meaning: when you have already decided and arranged to do it ( a fixed plan, a date)

- Form:

To be (am/are/is) + infinitive + -ing

- Examples:

Examples affirmative:

- I'm working/ he'sworking
- I'm going/ he's going

Examples negative:

- I'm not working/ he isn't working
- I'm not going/ he isn't going

Examples interrogative:

- Am I working?/Is he working?
- Am I going?/Is he going?

Simple past:

Signal words:

Last…, …ago, in 1990, yesterday.

- Use:

The action took place in the past. It is normally followed by an expression of time (no connection to the present).

- Form:

Regular: Infinitive + -ed

Irregular: (second column of the list of irregular verbs)

- Examples:

Examples affirmative:

- I worked/He worked
- I went/ he went

Examples negative:

- I didn't work/ he didn't work
- I didn'go/ he didn't go

Examples interrogative:

- Did I work?/ Did he work?
- Did I go?/ Did he go?

Past progressive:

Signal words:

While

- Use:

An action happened in the middle of another action

Someone was doing something at a certain time (in the past) you don't know whether it was finished or not.

- Form:

Was/were + infinitive + -ing

- Examples:

Examples affirmative:

- I was working/He was working
- I was going/ he was going

Examples negative:

- I wasn't working/ he wasn't working
- I wasn't going/ he wasn't going

Examples interrogative:

- Was I working?/ Was he working?
- Was I going? / Was he going?

Simple present perfect

Signal words:

Just, already, for, yet, so far, recently, never, up to now, ever, since.

- Use:

  Something has happened in the past and it has a connection to the present

  Action started in the past and continues up to the present.

- Form:

  Have/has +past participle*

  *(infinitive + -ed) or (3rd column of the table of irregular verbs)

- Examples:

  Examples affirmative:

  - I have worked/ he has worked
  - I have gone/ he has gone

  Examples negative:

  - I haven't worked/ he hasn't worked
  - I haven't gone/ he hasn't gone

  Examples interrogative:

  - Have I worked? / Has he worked?
  - Have I gone?/ Has he gone?

The TV is dead, long live television

For the first time, the number of UK homes with a television ____1____ , with ownership dropping from 26.33 million households to 26.02 million between 2012 and 2013, according to media regulator Ofcom.

It would be jolly to think that this __2___ a kind of revolutionary reaction to the traditional autumn onslaught of Strictly, The X Factor, I'm a Celebrity … and the bladdy Apprentice – an advent reality-TV endurance test that __3___ viewers not so much counting down the days until Father Christmas ___4___, as until Simon Cowell ___5___– but the reality is more complicated. While the television might be making an exit from our homes, the content is not necessarily leaving with it.

Instead we__6___ it in different ways: according to Ofcom, nearly 1 million homes have broadband but no telly, while in the past 18 months BBC iPlayer requests from tablets or mobiles ___7___from 25% to 47%. So long, enormous great box in the corner … and hello an evening on the sofa with your iPad.

2. INDEFINITE PRONOUNS

Introduction

Indefinite pronouns are those pronouns which do not refer to a specific –definite- thing, person or amount.

In this lesson, we are going to study those indefinite pronouns which are compound words of some, any and no, which follow the same grammatical rules as these ones, plus others.

Examples:

- Somebody has knocked the door
- You can't do anything for him
- I went nowhere on Friday

Finally, we have to take into account that some of these indefinite pronouns are singular, others are plural, and some of them can be singular or plural depending on the context.

Explanation

One type of indefinite pronouns is formed by two elements, one of which is some, any or no, so in general they behave the same way as they do. Pay attention to the meaning of these compound words, which varies depending on the use of them in affirmative, negative or interrogative sentences.

- Compound words of some

Somebody/ Someone (Alguien)

- Somebody's at the door.
- Someone called you last night.

Something (algo)

- There's something for you.
- I've got something you want.

Somewhere (En algún lugar):

- We will go somewhere nice this summer.
- She'd like to go somewhere quiet.

- Compound words of any

Anyone/ Anybody (nadie en frases negativas) (alguien en frases interrogativas):

- I couldn't see anybody in the dark.
- She doesn't know anyone here.

Anything (nada en frases negativas) (algo en frases interrogativas)

- They don't want anything.
- Did she like anything?

Anywhere (En ningún lugar en frases negativas) (en algún lugar en frases interrogativas)

- Did you go anywhere for holidays?
- We don't want to go anywhere.

- Compound words of no:

Nobody/No one (nadie):

- Nobody came.
- No one is here.

Nothing (nada):

- There's nothing to do.
- Nothing happened.

Nowhere (en ningún lugar):

- Nowhere is good enough for him.
- There's nowhere she wants to go.

Notice that in English there cannot be two negations in the same sentence. In this way, in Spanish you can say: "No tengo nada que decir", but in English it would be: "I don't have anything to say or I have nothing to say"

See that with somebody/someone/everybody/everyone we have a special feature: in general, they are usually followed by a verb in singular form:

- Nobody has come
- Someone is here

However, when we have to use an object pronoun to substitute one of these indefinite pronouns, we have to use a plural object pronoun, 'them', and not a singular pronoun such as him, her or it, as you can see in the following example:

- Someone has called.
- Tell them I'll be up in five minutes.

On the other hand, we have the following indefinite pronouns: Everyone, everybody, everything and everywhere. We use them to refer to a total number of people, things and places. Notice that they are written as one single word and they are singular pronouns.

Examples:

|---|---|
| Everybody *"Todo el mundo"* | Everybody calls me Ann. |
| Everyone *"Todo el mundo"* | Everyone wants to go to the cinema |
| Everything "todo" | I have bought everything we need. |
| Everywhere "todas partes" | I would like to go everywhere |

Finally, other indefinite pronouns are:

- Indefinite pronouns used in singular:

- another "otro" → That cake was delicious. May I have another?
- each "cada"→ This is not your bed. Each has his own.
- either "cualquiera (de los dos)", "ninguno (de los dos)" (in negative sentences) → Would you like wine or beer? Either is good for me.
- enough "suficiente" → Enough is enough.
- less "menos" → The cook used too much oil. I'd have used less.
- little "poco" → Little is known about the crime.
- much "mucho" →Much must be explained about that issue.
- neither "ninguno" → Neither is good for me.
- one "uno" → One never knows what to say in that situation.
- other "otro" → This is a long film, the other is shorter.
- You "tú" → You never know how to react.

* In this case it refers to an unidentified person

- Indefinite pronouns used in plural:

- Both "ambos" → I love the sea and the mountain. Both are fantastic.
- Few "pocos" → Few have agreed with the manager on that issue.
- Many "muchos" → Many voted for the conservative candidate.
- Others "otros" → I'm sure that others have arrived in the island before.
- Several "varios" → Politicians started to shout and several left the room.
- They "ellos" → They say that too much sugar is harmful.

*In this case 'they' refer to unidentified people.

- Indefinite pronouns used in singular or *plural:

- All "todo(s)" → All is forgotten / All have arrived
- Any "algo/alguno" → Is any left?/ Are any coming?
- More "más" → There is more on that table/ More are coming
- Most "la mayoría/ la mayor parte" → Most is lost/ Most have refused
- None "nada, ninguno" → There is not any coffee, why haven't you bought none? I invited ten people but none have come
- Such "tal" → He is a native and he must be paid as such. They are guests and they must be treated as such.

3. FIRST AND SECOND CONDITIONALS

Introduction

If I were you, I would study English.

The conditionals are those structures in English in which, if a certain situation, condition or circumstance is true, then a specific result occurs.

In English, there are four types of conditionals, called zero conditional, first conditional, second conditional, and third conditional.

In this lesson we are going to study the First and Second conditional, which structure you can see in the following examples:

If I save enough money, I will travel to London for New Year's Eve. (first conditional)

If you studied harder, you would pass the exams (second conditional)

Explanation

1st Conditional

It is used to express a situation which is very probable that happens as the result of another action.

If + Present simple + Future simple

- If you study English you will have more job offers → Si estudias ingles tendrás más ofertas de trabajo
- If she comes, we will enjoy ourselves → Si ella viene nos lo pasaremos muy bien.

2nd Conditional

If + past simple + would sentence

It is used when a situation is hypothetical or it is not very probable that it occurs.

- If the students had a dictionary, they would look up all these words → Si los alumnos tuvieran diccionario buscarían todas estas palabras.
- If I won the lottery, I would travel around the world → Si me tocara la lotería viajaría alrededor del mundo

Were can be used with the first and third person singular of the verb to be, although was is more frequent.

- If were/ was ill, I would be at home → Si estuviera enfermo estaría en casa

But in the expression If I were you, you can only use were.

- If I were you I would buy this car and not that. → si yo fuera tu compraría este coche y no aquel.

EXERCISE 1

Match these conditional sentences.

|---|---|
| 1. If I saw a UFO | A. I would visit Japan |
| 2. If it rains | B. I would live by the sea |
| 3. If I didn't feel well | C. I would call a doctor |
| 4. If I spoke Japanese | D. I will not go to the countryside |
| 5. If I had the opportunity | E. You will go to see a doctor |
| 6. If you don't feel well | F. I would start running |

EXERCISE 2

Choose the correct answer.

1. If I lose my job now, I ...

will take a long holiday and apply for a new job later.

would start a business of my own.

2. If he calls me 'lazy' again, I ...

won't ever help him again if he's in trouble.

go and tell his parents.

3. Philippa won't ever speak to me again if ...

I would let her down now.

I let her down now.

4. If the demand increases, prices ...

MÓDULO 2: HUMAN BODY

WARMING UP

What are you going to see in this lesson?

- Science of the obesity
- About our body
  - Make vs Do
  - Emphatic Do
  - Indirect speech
- Learning words and expressions in context
  - Illness
  - At the doctor

About our body

1. MAKE VS DO

Introduction

- In this lesson, we will talk about MAKE and DO and their differences in use.
- DO A FAVOUR = hacer un favor

Explanation

Both MAKE and DO can mean ¨hacer¨, but they are used in different cases. It is very important to know when to use them and the translation of a few expressions

DO

* We use the verb 'do' when someone performs an action, activity or task.

do a crossword = resolver/hacer un crucigrama

do the ironing = planchar

do the laundry = lavar la ropa

do the washing = lavar los platos

do business = hacer negocios

do harm = hacer daño

do a test = hacer un test

do an experiment = hacer un experimento

do the shopping = hacer la compra

do the cleaning = hacer la limpieza

* 'Do' is often used when referring to work of any kind.

do your work = hacer tu trabajo

do homework = hacer los deberes

do housework = realizar las tareas domésticas

do exercise = hacer ejercicio

Note - these activities do not usually produce a physical object.

* 'Do' for General Ideas

Use the verb 'do' when speaking about things in general. In other words, to describe an action without saying exactly what the action is. This form is often used with the words 'something, nothing, anything, everything, etc.'

I'm not doing anything today. (=Hoy no haré nada)

He does everything for his mother. (Él hace lo que sea por su madre)

She's doing nothing. (=No está haciendo nada)

2. EMPHATIC ¨DO¨

Introduction

- Now, it is the turn of EMPHATIC ´DO´. We will learn when and how to use it.
- Anne doesn't  believe in spirits but she does believe in angels.
- I don't like people in general but I do like you.
- Do sit down, please.
- It is true, I did play the guitar when I was younger

Explanation

Emphatic ´DO´ is the use of a form of the verb do (do, does, or did) to add emphasis to an affirmative sentence in present, past and imperative. We place it between the subject and the verb, except in the case of the imperative form. In this case, it is placed just before the verb (at the beginning of the sentence because there isn't any subject)

The emphatic 'do' is far more common in speech than in formal written English.

Unlike ordinary auxiliary verbs, which are typically unstressed in speech, « emphatic do » is almost always extra stressed in the pronunciation.

- I LIKE FRUITS = I DO LIKE FRUITS
- I WORKED IN LONDON = I DID WORK IN LONDON
- OPEN THE WINDOW = DO OPEN THE WINDOW*

EXERCISE 1

Change these sentences into emphatic form.

1. I hate watching a film on my own.
2. I came on time to the meeting.
3. Your bedroom is a mess; clean it!
4. I bought a nice present for her.
5. Sit down, please.
6. My sister knows the answer.

EXERCISE 2

Complete the sentences using Emphatic 'Do'.

1. Paul has a new girl friend. => Paul _____ a new girl friend.

2. My parents missed their flight. => My parents _____their flight.

3. My best buddy sings in a choir. => My best buddy _____in a choir.

4. You got into serious trouble. => You _____into serious trouble.

5. Have another glass of water! => _____ another glass of water!

6. You knew a lot about pets. => You _____a lot about pets.

7. Come in! => _____ !

8. She thinks you are wrong. => She _____ you are wrong.

9. Your brother needs a new satchel. => Your brother _____ a new satchel.

10. Sit down! => _____ !

3. INDIRECT SPEECH

Introduction

- Now, we will learn how to report people's speech. That is, telling someone what other people said.

Explanation

If we use the same words as a speaker to report what he or she says, we are using direct speech. In written language, direct speech is usually signalled by being enclosed in question marks:

- Paul told me: ¨You're very pretty¨ = Paul me dijo: ¨Estás muy guapa¨.

If, on the other hand, we report what was said by means of a subordinate clause, we are using indirect or reported speech.

- Paul told me that I was very pretty = Paul me dijo que (yo) estaba muy guapa.

When going from direct to indirect speech, we have to take into account some changes or shifts.

TENSE SHIFTS

Reported speech is used to express something that other person said before. For that, we use a subordinated clause:

Direct speech:

She told me:" you are working too much". Me dijo: "Estás trabajando demasiado".

- She told me that I was working too much. Me dijo que estaba trabajando demasiado

When changing from direct to indirect speech, we need to change the verbs tense. Have a look at the following chart to see some of these changes.

| DIRECT SPEECH | INDIRECT SPEECH |
|---|---|
| Simple presentI goVoy | Simple pastI wentFui/iba |
| Present progressiveI'm goingVoy | Past progressiveI was goingFui/iba |
| Present perfectI have goneHe ido | Past perfectI had goneHabía ido |
| Simple pastI wentFuí/iba | Past perfectI had goneHabía ido |
| Past progressiveI was goingEstaba yendo | Past progressive/past perfect progressiveI was going/ I had been goingEstaba yendo/ había estado yendo |
| Present perfect progressiveI have been goingHe estado yendo | Past perfect progressiveI had been goingHabía estado yendo |
| FutureI am going to goVoy a ir | Past + going toI was going to goIba a ir |
| CanI can goPuedo ir | CouldI could goPodría ir |
| MayI may goPuedo ir | MightI might goPodría ir |
| MustI must goDebo ir | Must/had toI must go/I had to goDebo ir/ tenía que ir |
| WillI will goIré | WouldI would goIría |
| ShallI shall goIré | Should/ WouldI should go/ I would goIría |

When changing from direct to indirect speech, we need to change the pronouns and adverbs.

Direct speech:

She told me "I went to the cinema yesterday" Ella me dijo: "Fui¡í al cine ayer"

Indirect speech:

She told me she had gone to the cinema the day before ME dijo que había ido al cine el día anterior.

| DIRECT SPEECH | INDIRECT SPEECH |
|---|---|
| Pronouns | |
| I | He/she |
| Me | Him/her |
| Mine | His/her |
| We | They |
| Us | Them |
| Our | Their |
| Ours | Theirs |
| Time | |
| Now | Then |
| Today | That day |
| Tonight | That night |
| Yesterday | The day before |
| Tomorrow | The next/following day |
| Next week, month... | The following week, month... |
| Last week, month | The previous week, month... |
| Ago | Before |
| Place | |
| Here | There |
| This/these | That/those/The |

TYPES OF SENTENCES

We can classify the reported speech sentences in four groups:

Here we have three different types of sentences and the most common used verb is "ask".

a) statements

b) questions (two types): yes/no questions; and wh- questions

c) commands

d) exclamations

Statements or declarative sentences, whether they are affirmative or negative, change into indirect speech by means of a that-clause. The omission of the conjuction that is optional. We can use SAY (SAID) or TELL (TOLD).

- Bill said: ¨I don't like meat¨ = Bill said (that) he didn't like meat. Bill dijo: ¨No me gusta la carne¨ = Bill dijo que no le gustaba la carne.
- John said: I will eat with you tomorrow = John said (that) he would eat with me the next day.
- John dijo: ¨Comeré contigo mañana¨ = John dijo que comería conmigo el próximo día¨.

Questions requiring a yes-no question go into indirect speech in the form of a clause introduced by if or whether (they mean ¨si¨). The verb ASK (ASKED) is mainly used.

- Peter asked: ¨Did you sleep?¨ = Peter asked if/whether I had slept.
- Pedro preguntó: ¨Has dormido?¨ = Pedro preguntó si (yo) había dormido.

Questions beginning with a question word (wh- questions) which request specific information are changed into indirect speech using an interrogative clause introduced by the appropriate question word.

- Mike asked: ¨What are they doing?¨ = Mike asked what they were doing.
- Mike preguntó: ¨¿Qué están haciendo?¨ = Mike preguntó que qué estaban haciendo.

Alternative questions normally go into indirect speech in the form of a clause introduced by whether.

- He asked her: ¨Are you ready or not? = He asked her whether she was ready or not. Él le preguntó: ¨ ¿Estás lista o no? = Él le pregunto si estaba lista o no.

Commands change into indirect speech in English using the to-infinitive.

- He told me: ¨Wait for me here¨ = He told me to wait for him there. Él me dijo: ¨Esperamé aquí¨ = Él me dijo que esperara allí.
- He told me: ¨Don't cry¨ = He told me not to cry. Él me dijo: No llores = Él me dijo que no llorara.

Exclamations change to indirect speech in the form of a that-clause with the same meaning as the corresponding exclamative sentence or by means of a clause introduced by the exclamative particle itself.

- She said: ¨What a wonderful day = She exclaimed that it was a wonderful day = she said what a wonderful day it was.

- Ella dijo: ¨ ¡Qué día más maravilloso! = Ella exclamó que era un día maravilloso = Ella dijo que qué maravilloso día hacía.

EXERCISE 1

Finish the sentences using Reported Speech.

1. Andrew: "Clean the blue bike!"
   Andrew told me_____

3. They asked: ¨Does Peter sing a lot?¨ = They asked if _____.
4. We asked: "Why did Carla leave so early?" = We asked why _____.
5. He asked: ¨Is your father from France?¨ = He asked if _____.

Let's practice!

1. READING: STRANGE FINGERTIPS

Do the preparation exercise first. Then, read the text about Finger science and do the exercises to check your understanding.

Vocabulary Preparation

Match the vocabulary with the correct definition and write a – h next to the number 1 – 8.

|---|---|
| 1. to shrink | a. the part at the end of your finger |
| 2. to wrinkle | b. a dried plum; it is black and has many lines on its skin |
| 3. to grip | c. to get smaller (sometimes an article of clothing can do this when you wash it) |
| 4. treads | d. to form small lines and folds on skin or material |
| 5. a prune | e. the lines on a tyre which help it stick to the road |
| 6. your fingertip | f. to hold something in your hand with great force |
| 7. your index finger | g. a small, glass ball which children play games with |
| 8. a marble | h. the finger next to your thumb |

Reading comprehension:

Have you ever wondered why your fingers get wrinkled in water? A new theory could explain all!

Strange fingertips

We are all familiar with the prune-like fingers we get when we are in the bath. Most people think it's caused by water making the skin in our fingers bigger. In fact it could be an evolutionary feature caused by a reaction in our body's central nervous system. Rather than the skin getting bigger, fingertips actually shrink when they wrinkle, because the blood vessels inside them contract. The lines could have evolved in our ancestors as they collected food from wet vegetation or streams.

Dr Tom Smulders, an evolutionary neuroscientist at Newcastle University, wanted to test the theory proposed by Mark Changizi in 2011, which said that wrinkled fingers were an evolutionary adaptation. Like treads on tyres, Changizi said that wrinkles served the function of removing water from between the fingers and objects, making it easier to pick things up.

Perfect student project

Smulders saw that it should be easy to prove that wrinkled fingers were better at gripping in wet conditions and it was an ideal student project. He explains, 'we had the idea of timing how long it takes to move marbles from one container to another, between thumb and index finger. The people in the experiment did that underwater or not underwater, with wrinkled fingers or not wrinkled fingers – so one person did all four conditions.'

They found that people are in fact better at moving objects from underwater with wrinkled fingers than with normal fingers. Smulders said how the original theory was based on the wrinkling as an active process, controlled by the nervous system. People who have damage to their peripheral nerves in their fingers don't get wrinkles any more.

Adaptation to environment

Whether that means that wrinkled fingers are an adaptation is open to question; it could be a side effect of something that evolved for a different reason. As Smulders explains,

'it all points towards that it may well be an adaptation for wet conditions, but you can't prove that from a single experiment; you have to think about many pieces of evidence.' The research suggests that there may be a loss of sensitivity in our hands, which explains why our fingers return to their normal state when not under water.

Smulders hopes these results will encourage colleagues to continue this research and understand what the evolutionary advantages were for having wrinkled fingers.

EXERCISE 1

Check your understanding: true or false.

1. When we have a bath, the tips of our fingers sometimes become covered with lines and folds.

2. Wrinkled fingertips are caused by water making our skin bigger.

3. The lines on wet fingers are caused by changes in blood vessels in the fingers.

4. Mark Changizi thinks that the lines that appear on wet fingers are connected with evolution.

5. In experiments, it was discovered that people could move objects from underwater better with normal fingers.

6. It is certain that wrinkled fingers are an evolutionary adaptation for wet conditions.

EXERCISE 2

Check your understanding: gap fill. Complete the sentences with a suitable word.

| | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| grip | sensitivity | prove | reason | shrink | research |

1. When fingertips wrinkle, it's actually because the blood vessels in the fingers _____.

2. According to Mark Changizi, wrinkled fingers are an evolutionary adaptation that makes things easier to _____ in water.

3. Smulders said it should be easy to _____ that wrinkled fingers grip better than normal fingers.

4. Scientists are not completely sure if wrinkled fingers are an adaptation, or a side effect of something that evolved for a different _____.

5. The research suggests that wrinkled fingers may lose some _____, which is why they soon return to normal.

6. Smulders hopes that his colleagues will continue to _____ this topic.

About describing

1. THE DEFINITE ARTICLE – THE

Introduction

- The word "the" is one of the most common words in English. It is our only definite article. Nouns in English are preceded by the definite article when the speaker believes that the listener already knows what he is referring to. The speaker may believe this for many different reasons, some of which are listed below.

Explanation

When to use "the"

General rules

Use the to refer to something which has already been mentioned.

Examples

- An unarmed man stole 1000$ from the bank on Monday. The thief hasn't been caught yet.
- I was walking past Benny's Bakery when I decided to go into the bakery to get some bread.
- There's a position available in my team. The job will involve some international travel.

Use the when you assume there is just one of something in that place, even if it has not been mentioned before.

Examples

- We went on a walk in the forest yesterday.
- Where is the bathroom*?*
- Turn left and go to number 45. Our house is across from the Italian restaurant*.*
- My father enjoyed the book you gave him.

Use the in sentences or clauses where you define or identify a particular person or object.

Examples

- The man who wrote this book is famous.
- I scratched the red car parked outside.
- I live in the small house with a blue door.
- He is the doctor I came to see.

Use the to refer to people or objects that are unique.

Examples

- The sun rose at 6:17 this morning.
- You can go anywhere in the world*.*
- Clouds drifted across the sky*.*
- The president will be speaking on TV tonight.
- The CEO of Total is coming to our meeting.

Use the before superlatives and ordinal numbers.

Examples

- This is the highest building in New York.
- She read the last chapter of her new book first.
- You are the tallest person in our class.
- This is the third time I have called you today.

Use the with adjectives, to refer to a whole group of people.

Examples

- The French enjoy cheese.
- The elderly require special attention.
- She has given a lot of money to the poor*.*

Use the with decades.

Examples

- He was born in the seventies*.*
- This is a painting from the 1820's*.*

Use the with clauses introduced by only

Examples

- This is the only day we've had sunshine all week.
- You are the only person he will listen to.
- The only tea I like is black tea.

Proper nouns

Use the with names of geographical areas, rivers, mountain ranges, groups of islands, canals, and oceans.

Examples

- They are travelling in the Arctic*.*
- Our ship crossed the Atlantic in 7 days.
- I will go on a cruise down the Nile*.*
- Hiking across the Rocky Mountains would be difficult.

Use the with countries that have plural names

Examples

- I have never been to the Netherlands*.*
- Do you know anyone who lives in the Philippines*?*

Use the with countries that include the words "republic", "kingdom", or "states" in their names.

Examples

- She is visiting the United States.
- James is from the Republic of Ireland.

Use the with newspaper names.

Examples

- I read it in the Guardian.
- She works for the New York Times.

Use the with the names of famous buildings, works of art, museums, or monuments.

Examples

- Have you been to the Vietnam Memorial?
- We went to the Louvre and saw the Mona Lisa.
- I would like to visit the Eiffel Tower.
- I saw King Lear at the Globe.

Use the with the names of hotels & restaurants, unless these are named after a person.

Examples

- They are staying at the Hilton on 6th street.
- We ate at the Golden Lion.

Use the with the names of families, but not with the names of individuals.

Examples

- We're having dinner with the Smiths tonight.
- The Browns are going to the play with us.*

When not to use "the"

Do not use the with names of countries (except for the special cases above).

Examples

- Germany is an important economic power.
- He's just returned from Zimbabwe.

Do not use the with the names of languages.

Examples

- French is spoken in Tahiti.
- English uses many words of Latin origin.
- Indonesian is a relatively new language.

Do not use the with the names of meals.

Examples

- Lunch is my favorite meal.
- I like to eat breakfast early.

Do not use the with people's names.

Examples

- John is coming over later.
- Mary Carpenter is my boss.

Do not use the with titles when combined with names.

Examples

- Prince Charles is Queen Elizabeth's son.
- President Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas.

Do not use the after the 's possessive case

Examples

- His brother's car was stolen.
- Peter's house is over there.

Do not use the with professions

Examples

- Engineering is a well-paid career.
- He'll probably study medicine.

Do not use the with names of shops

Examples

- I'll get the card at Smith's.
- Can you go to Boots for me?

Do not use the with years

Examples

- 1978 was a wonderful year.
- He was born in 1995.

Do not use the with uncountable nouns

Examples

- Rice is an important food in Asia.
- Milk is often added to tea in England.
- War is destructive.

Do not use the with the names of individual mountains, lakes and islands

Examples

- Mount McKinley is the highest mountain in Alaska.
- She lives near Lake Windermere.
- Have you visited Long Island?

Do not use the with most names of towns, streets, stations and airports

Examples

- Victoria Station is in the centre of London.
- Can you direct me to Bond Street?
- She lives in Florence.
- They're flying into Heathrow.

2. USED TO

Introduction

- Used to is used for past habits. Used to is generally treated as an ordinary verb to form the negative and the interrogative. In a more formal context, used to can act as a modal verb.
- Be/get used to must be followed by a noun, pronoun or gerund. Be used to means be accustomed to;
- Get used to, get accustomed to. This structure implies a process, whereas the process is over in the structure of be used to.

Explanation

1. USED TO + INFINITIVE

We use this structure to express habits in the past , It is not a tense but it is like a tense. It is a special expression. It is a defective verb, that means it only has the past tense. if we want to express a habit in the present we use the simple present and a frequency adverb (usually).

- I used to go there in summer. But I usually go there in summer.

We can never say I use to go there ... The usual question form with "used to" is:

- Did you use to see them very often?

Answers:

- Yes, I used to.
- No, I didn't use to.
- No, I never used to.

Remember that "use" and not "used" is used after "did" and "didn't".

2. TO BE USED TO + ING

We use this structure to say that something is normal, not unusual.

- I'm used to living on my own. I've done it for quite a long time.
- Hans has lived in England for over a year so he is used to driving on the left now.
- They've always lived in hot countries so they aren't used to the cold weather here.

To be used to+ gerund/noun/pronoun

- I am used to working with children
- I am used to children
- I am used to them

3. TO GET USED TO + ING

We use this structure to talk about the process of something becoming normal for us.

- I didn't understand the accent when I first moved here but I quickly got used to it.
- She has started working nights and is still getting used to sleeping during the day.
- I have always lived in the country but now I'm beginning to get used to living in the city.

To get used to+ gerund/noun/pronoun

- I am getting used to working with children/
- I am getting used to children
- I am getting used to them

We can also say to become used / accustomed to with the same structure.

3. ANAPHORIC TO

Introduction

'Anaphoric to' receives this name because its use implies references to elements, aspects, situations or characters previously mentioned.

Explanation

The main uses of to when placed with a verb are:

- To form the infinitive of a verb.
  - to wrap (envolver), to spoil (estropear, consentir), to lend (prestar).
- To act as a preposition.
  - I'll go to the meeting. (Iré a la reunión.)
- To substitute a verb or a clause. This use is known as 'anaphoric to' and presents characteristics which are detailed below.

The anaphor produced by to happens on three occasions:

- When we use a verb followed by an infinitive.
  - I don't know whether he's going to Lisbon, but I think he's planning to. (to = to go to Lisbon)
  - Don't worry about passing the test; I know you'll manage to. (to = to pass the test)

Do not forget the list of verbs followed by a verb with a to infinitive, including:

afford – learn – expect – pretend – agree – manage – fail – forget – propose – attempt – refuse – be able – hope – plan – decide – seem – prepare – want

- When we use an infinitive clause (subject + to + verb)
  - Can you tell the teacher to send me more examples?

    Yes, I'll tell him to.

    (to = to send you more examples).

  - Are you sure you would like her to tell you the truth?

    Of course I'd like her to!

    (to = to tell me the truth).

- When we use the following auxiliary verbs:
  - Used to.

    Imagine that Charles used to smoke a packet of cigarettes a day last year. This year, he smokes 10 cigarettes per day. We can say:

    - Charles doesn't smoke as he used to. (to = to smoke)
  - Ought to.

    Now imagine that Charles' girlfriend always asks him to give up smoking. However, he refuses to do so. We can say:

    - Charles doesn't want to give up smoking, but his girlfriend thinks that he ought to. (to = to give up smoking)
  - Have to.

    Eventually, Charles goes to the doctor's. He tells Charles that he must give up smoking in order not to have serious health problems. We can say:

    - Charles doesn't want to give up smoking; nevertheless, the doctor tells him that he has to. (to = to give up smoking)

1. READING: PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION

Read this text about famous anthropologist, Jane Goodall, considered being the world's best expert on chimpanzees:

"Jane Goodall had long been an idol of mine before I had the opportunity to meet her personally. She is very busy and always travelling, so the chance to see her is quite rare.

It was two years ago, that Jane Goodall came to the German JG-Institute in Munich to give a lecture, and so I took a flight to Munich to see her. She did not look like what I had expected a popular world-renowned scientist would look like. In spite of having been born in Britain in April 1934, she had nothing of a typical British behaviour about her. She wore blue jeans, trainers and a cotton blouse. She looked like a normal and modest woman, one that you would meet in a supermarket. And she did not even look like a woman over 50, though her long hair tied in a ponytail was grey. Her face was smooth and in a very mysterious way looked carefree like a child ´s face does.

There was a very lively and wise expression in her eyes, but most impressible was the deep love and peace they transmitted to everybody when she spoke to the audience. She had lived over 30 years next to chimpanzees in the rainforest, studying and learning from them as she said. You could see the marks of that life, as her whole body seemed to transmit peace and wisdom and was as fit as that of a young woman in her mid-twenties. And even though she has been back to the civilized world for many years now, where she has taught at many universities and fought battles against politicians, businesses and other strong opponents to get protection for chimpanzees and other apes, she must have done this with those very calm gestures that are more convincing than any powerful and eloquent talk.

by Judith Burgdorfer
